

Invesco FTSE All-World UCITS ETF

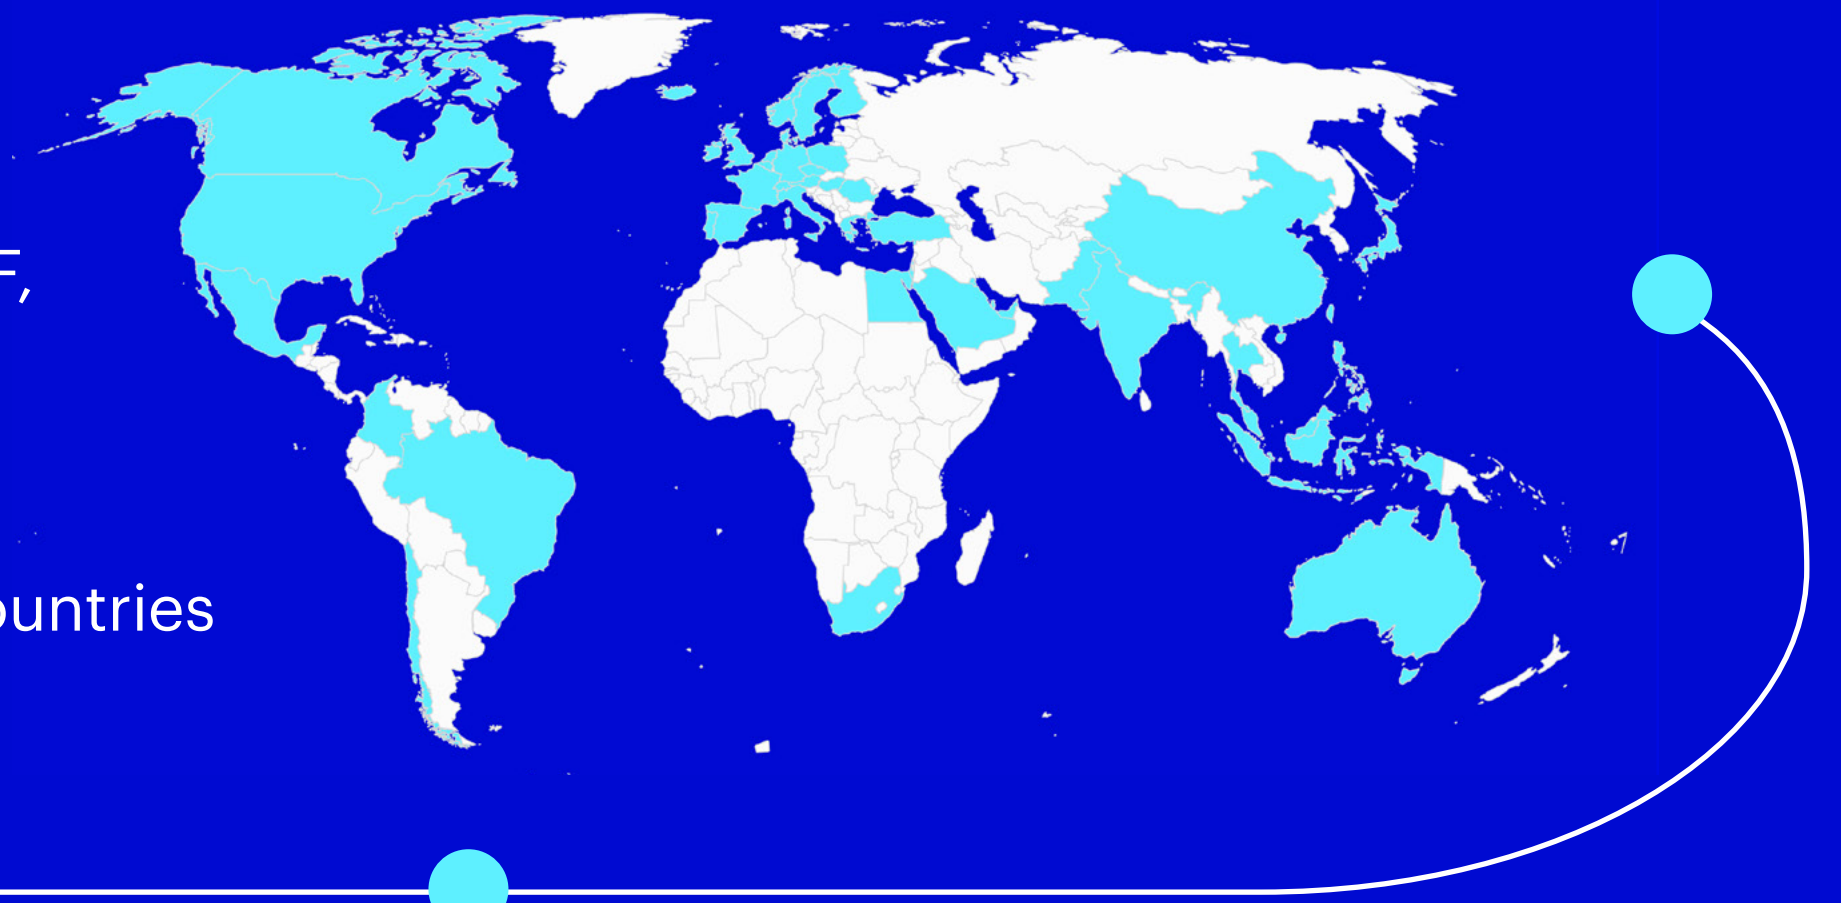

This marketing communication is for use in the UK.

Investors should read the legal documents prior to investing. The value of investments and any income will fluctuate (this may partly be the result of exchange rate fluctuations) and investors may not get back the full amount invested. As a large portion of this fund is invested in less developed countries, investors should be prepared to accept a higher degree of risk than for an ETF that invests only in developed markets. See other risks below.

Global equities, made simple.

Investing in our Invesco FTSE All-World UCITS ETF, you would gain exposure to:

- Over 4000 companies
- Across nearly 50 developed and emerging countries
- For just 0.15% per annum
- In 1 simple, low-cost ETF

Long-term growth

Equity investing has been one of the most successful ways to generate long-term growth. That's important when you're saving for the future. However, it's essential to understand there are no guarantees, equities can go down as well as up.

The power of diversification

Looking for exposure to more established companies with steadier growth patterns? Or companies with the potential for higher growth opportunities? By combining developed and emerging markets, you get the best of both worlds.

Low-cost investing

While there are no guarantees about the future performance of the stock market, the impact of an ETF's cost is easier to see. That's why it makes sense to choose an ETF with low fees. After all, it's your money you're investing. You should be able to keep as much of it as possible.

Looking to invest?

If you're new to ETFs and unsure how to invest, you would typically buy and sell through an online trading platform, stockbroker or financial adviser.
